Synopsis

In the year 69 AD, the Roman Empire is in chaos. Emperor Nero has been overthrown and killed, and the empire is on the brink of civil war. In the midst of this turmoil, a young Roman officer named Titus Pullo finds himself caught up in a dangerous conspiracy that could change the course of history.

Titus is a loyal soldier, but he is also a man of honor. When he discovers that the new emperor, Galba, is planning to betray his oath to the Roman people, Titus must make a choice. Should he remain loyal to his emperor or to his country?.

As Titus struggles with his conscience, he is drawn into a web of intrigue and danger. He must navigate the treacherous political waters of Rome, where betrayal and deceit are commonplace. He must also face the brutal realities of war, as the empire is torn apart by civil conflict.

Through it all, Titus remains a beacon of hope for the Roman people. He is a man of courage, compassion, and integrity. He is a true dominus, a leader worthy of their trust.
